

Affidavit of Financial Support

International students requesting F-1 status must submit official financial documentation which prove that enough funds are readily available to cover the first year of estimated expenses. International students requesting J-1 must submit official financial documentation which prove that enough funds are readily available to cover the entire length of their program. If the financial documents are not in the student's name, an affidavit of support must be provided by the holder of the financial account. A student may have more than one financial sponsor. An affidavit of financial support is required for each financial sponsor. Bellevue University must also receive an official bank statement indicating a current account balance to verify available funds meet the minimum required estimated costs.
